- 1. (a) Nine AC. landed Davidsdow, three AC landed Exeter
- (b) none

2. 1 AC returned early due to broken oil line

- 3. Weather route out, practically solid overcast until middle of French Peninsula. Cloud at target, but target itself clear. Route in, scattered clouds to 10/10 at one thousand feet over English Coast
- 4. After bombing target, flack hit #3 engine one AC resulting in vibration so severe pilot could not maintain speed or elevation. Plane last seen turning into French Coast as balance formation started across channel.

Flack responsible for injuries to four men in two crews.

One E/A destroyed by own flack over target as it flew between our ~~flack~~ squadrons.

- 5. Eight to ten Focke Wulf 190's attacked formation at 16,000 feet shortly after crossing French Coast on way to target. E/A attacked singly, one coming so close number of his plane clearly visible. Crews report attacks from underneath for first time. Claim two certain, ~~one~~ probable, ~~one~~ damaged.

two

- 6. Due to solid overcast over French ~~Peninsula~~ Peninsula and ~~unstable~~ to different wind velocities than those forecast at briefing, formation inadvertently came into flack area around St. Nazaire but proceeded back on course and bombed primary.

one

- 7. Four men from two crews injured. C. L. Grimes, Lt., Navigator, killed by flack. J. R. King, Lt., Co-pilot, wrist fractured by flack. R. P. Dresch, Lt., Co-pilot, hip and leg wounds from flack. R. Arnold, S/Sgt., Waist-gunner, leg wound from flack.

- 8. Defective release on bomb racks resulted in one AC dropping bombs off target.

- 9. Crews report seeing balloons along river Loire attached to boats. Four balloons at target. Number of flack ships at target. Flack positions on point peninsula at target. Two enemy naval vessels exact size unknown at St. Nazaire.
