Dearest Sweetheart:

I just writing you a few lines to let you know I miss you so very much and I am always thinking of you. Yours truly is in good health and hope this letter reaches you likewise.

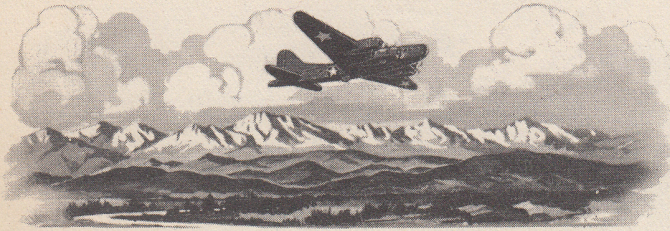

I didn't receive any mail from you today but I am not worrying as I know you write every day. I try to write every day even though I haven't but one thing to say to you and that is I love so much.

Today was another day of doing nothing. It was very hot and I passed the afternoon quietly by sleeping. This morning I had one of my teeth filled and my teeth are all o.k. now. I was also issued a gym suit and sneakers. Monday I start going to school and take part in athletics.

I'm going to take up leather craft, metal smith and photography. They make some swell things here. I'm going to make something I'm sure you will like but I won't tell you until I have finished it.

I just came back from the movies. Seen an old picture "Jimmy Steps Out" with J. Steward and P. Hubbard.

When I went to the dentist this morning I was fooking around <sup>with</sup> the doctors assistant, a blonde nurse. She was pretty nice and very sociable. In fact, so sociable she voluntarily took all the in-grown hairs out of my face. That's as far as it went though now as I was thinking about you and girl.

I'm writing this letter from the Service club and they're playing some swell numbers. Numbers like "Sentimental Journey" and "Candy" sound swell to me and make me lonesome as they remind me of moments with you. Someday soon we will be together again sweetheart and will live those moments all over again.

That's all for now my dearest so I'm going to close my letter here. Don't work too hard at that new job and take good care of yourself. Give mom and pop my love. Regards to everyone. I besent dream sweetheart and sleep tight. See you in all my dreams and remember I love you dearly.
Your loving husband
Lou - Vick.
